CONTRACT BENEFITS

Death Benefit as of December 31, 2015.....$34,311.25

The death benefit value above is for illustration purposes only, and provides the death benefit for this contract as of the date indicated if the owner, joint owner, or the annuitant dies before we begin to make annuity. The death benefit value shown includes a Distribution Charge or Premium Based Charge, if applicable. Your contract may contain two or more death benefit formulas or calculations; the calculation resulting in the highest amount is the death benefit. Based on your specific death benefit certain components may not continue to be calculated in the same manner at older ages. To determine all of the variables, including age and values, fees and/or other charges that factor into your death benefit, please refer to your contract. On the day we receive the certified death certificate, the death benefit will be calculated for this contract and all contracts associated with the insured life. You should understand that the death benefit amount remains invested according to the owner's last instructions and will continue to lose or gain value every day until we receive all the required documentation, including signed forms, necessary for the settlement of the contract.
